

MICHELIN Guide Belgium & Luxembourg 2011 New starred restaurants prove that quality need not be costly

(Zellik, Belgium – November 22, 2010) – Michelin is today releasing the MICHELIN guide Belgium-Luxembourg 2011. The new edition features a selection of 1,658 establishments – of which 673 hotels and 985 restaurants – covering every comfort and price category.

Every year, Michelin carefully prepares a selection that reflects the variety and quality of gourmet dining in Belgium and Luxembourg while also meeting reader expectations. The MICHELIN guide confirms a clearly discernible trend over the past few years: fine dining has become more affordable.

The 2011 edition features a broad selection of the best establishments in all comfort and price categories. It lists a total of 985 restaurants, of which 131 awarded the Bib Gourmand label and 115 with one, two or three stars. The guide also presents new reasonably priced “starred” restaurants where readers can dine for around €60, proof that quality need not be costly. Among the best examples are Pouic-Pouic in Chapelle-Lez-Herlaimont, La Table de Maxime in Paliseul and Bistro Margaux in Sint-Martens-Bodegem. The MICHELIN guide is indispensable for diners looking for the best restaurant within their budget.

What’s new in the 2011 guide

131 Bib Gourmand restaurants 🍷, of which 25 newly awarded the label

More than 130 restaurants in the new edition display the Bib Gourmand label. Because of the recession, these restaurants have become increasingly important to readers in recent years and are much sought after. Michelin has aligned itself with this trend, listing 131 restaurants in the category in the 2011 guide, compared with 125 in 2010 and 114 in 2009. The Bib Gourmand label denotes excellent value for money. The inspectors’ favorites, these restaurants show that it’s possible to eat well at an affordable price. They offer a delicious three-course meal for less than €35, thanks to their chefs, who are committed to doing things right and making good food affordable to everyone.

115 starred restaurants ⭐, of which 10 new additions

While inclusion in the MICHELIN guide is already a sign of quality, some restaurants deserve special attention because of their truly outstanding cuisine, which is indicated in the guide with stars. A restaurant that has been awarded one or more stars is not only among the best in its city or country but also in the world.

The number of starred restaurants in Belgium and Luxembourg has increased to 115 this year, compared with 104 in the 2009 guide.

- 2 three-star restaurants 🌟🌟🌟: De Karmeliet in Bruges and Hof van Cleve in Kruishoutem.
- 15 two-star restaurants 🌟🌟, including two just awarded a second star:
Nuance in Duffel, which received its first star last year and now its second in the 2011 guide. Aan Tafel bij Luc Bellings in Hasselt has also been awarded a second star.
- 98 one-star restaurants 🌟, including 8 new additions:
The new edition includes a large number of new one-star restaurants, some of them surprising choices. One is Lam & Yin, a Chinese restaurant in the center of Antwerp. Another is Kamo in Brussels, a Japanese restaurant that serves outstanding dishes at affordable prices.

Value for money is especially high in Belgium this year, proving that starred restaurants are not necessarily expensive.

The guide also features a broad selection of 673 hotels, covering all comfort and price categories from guesthouses to luxury hotels.

This wide array reaffirms the MICHELIN guide's values, which explain its longevity and its popularity throughout the 20th century. Since 1904, the guide has developed a reputation as the benchmark for finding just the right restaurant or hotel.

In 2011, the MICHELIN guide – which in fact is a collection – comprises 26 guides covering 23 countries. Featuring everything from cozy little eateries serving delicious food to three-star restaurants and from small, family-run inns to luxury hotels, the MICHELIN guide has become the standard by which hotels and restaurants in a given city or country are judged.

The guide offers a reliable selection that is updated every year by anonymous, professional inspectors, all of whom are MICHELIN employees and pay all their hotel and restaurant bills. Its consistent, meticulous selection process is unique and applied in all countries covered by the MICHELIN guide. Restaurants anywhere around the world that are being considered for stars are judged on the same five criteria: product quality, preparation and flavors, the chef's personality as revealed through his or her cuisine, value for money, and consistency over time and across the entire menu. These criteria are adapted to each type of cuisine.

Fully aligned with readers' needs and desires, the MICHELIN guide truly is for everyone. Whether looking for a romantic setting, a friendly place to dine with friends or a small restaurant near the office for lunch with a colleague between two meetings, readers are always sure to find what they want in the MICHELIN guide.
