

MICHELIN Guide Netherlands 2011 New starred restaurants prove that quality need not be costly

(Drunen, Netherlands – November 23, 2010) – Michelin is today releasing the MICHELIN guide Netherlands 2011. The new edition features a selection of 1,209 establishments – of which 566 hotels and 643 restaurants – covering every comfort and price category.

Every year, Michelin carefully prepares a selection that reflects the variety and quality of gourmet dining in the Netherlands while also meeting reader expectations. The MICHELIN guide confirms a clearly discernible trend over the past few years: fine dining has become more affordable.

The 2011 edition features a broad selection of the best establishments in all comfort and price categories. It lists a total of 643 restaurants, of which 97 awarded the Bib Gourmand label and 98 with one, two or three stars. The guide also presents new reasonably priced starred restaurants where readers can dine for around €60, proof that quality need not be costly. Among the best examples are 't Amsterdammertje in Loenen aan de Vecht, De Burgemeester in Montfoort and One in Roermond.

The MICHELIN guide is indispensable for diners looking for the best restaurant within their budget.

What's new in the 2011 guide

97 Bib Gourmand restaurants 🍷, of which 20 newly awarded the label

In all, 97 restaurants in the new edition display the Bib Gourmand label. Because of the recession, these restaurants have become increasingly important to readers in recent years and are much sought after. Michelin has aligned itself with this trend, listing 97 restaurants in the category in the 2011 guide, compared with 93 in 2010 and 87 in 2009. The Bib Gourmand label denotes excellent value for money. The inspectors' favorites, these restaurants show that it's possible to eat well at an affordable price. They offer a delicious three-course meal for less than €35, thanks to their chefs, who are committed to doing things right and making good food affordable to everyone.

98 "starred" restaurants ⭐, of which 9 new additions

The number of "starred" restaurants has increased to 98 this year, compared with 91 in the 2010 guide. While inclusion in the MICHELIN guide is already a sign of quality, some restaurants deserve special attention because of their truly outstanding cuisine, which is indicated with stars. A restaurant that has been awarded one or more stars is not only among the best in its city or country but also in the world.

The guide also features a broad selection of 566 hotels, covering all comfort and price categories from guesthouses to luxury hotels.

This wide array reaffirms the MICHELIN guide's values, which explain its longevity and its popularity throughout the 20th century. Since 1905, it has developed a reputation as the benchmark guide for finding just the right restaurant or hotel.

In 2011, the MICHELIN guide – which in fact is a collection – comprises 26 guides covering 23 countries. Featuring everything from cozy little eateries serving delicious food to three-star restaurants and from small, family-run inns to luxury hotels, it has become the standard by which hotels and restaurants in a given city or country are judged.

The guide offers a reliable selection that is updated every year by anonymous, professional inspectors, all of whom are MICHELIN employees and pay all their hotel and restaurant bills. Its consistent, meticulous selection process is unique and applied in all countries covered by the MICHELIN guide. Restaurants anywhere around the world that are being considered for stars are judged on the same five criteria: product quality, preparation and flavors, the chef's personality as revealed through his or her cuisine, value for money, and consistency over time and across the entire menu. These criteria are adapted to each type of cuisine.

Fully aligned with readers' needs and desires, the MICHELIN guide truly is for everyone. Whether looking for a romantic setting, a friendly place to dine with friends or a small restaurant near the office for lunch with a colleague between two meetings, readers are always sure to find what they want in the MICHELIN guide.
